OSFIELD OLD STAND

WHY DON'T YOU Use Electricity

for Lighting

It is certainly cheaper than oil, costing only 1 1/2 cents per night for a 16 candle power light.

It is less trouble, needs no attention and is always ready.

It is safer, and where used will reduce insurance if oil is entirely eliminated.

There is no danger from fire.

Lines will be extended to any part of town where the business warrants such extension and the consumer can have either the same flat rate as was used by the former management, or if the consumer so desires a meter will be installed.

If you are thinking of using electricity, let us know and someone will call upon you to give any information you may desire.

HAS STRONG FACULTY

Dallas College Will Open September 19 With Greatly Increased Attendance.

Dallas College will open its doors on Wednesday, September 19, for the beginning of the year 1906-07, with the prospect of a greatly increased enrollment of students from Western Oregon and with the possibility of several students from east of the mountains. The college has undergone several changes since the beginning of the present vacation, and when the doors are opened a thoroughly renovated and well-equipped school will be ready for the reception and instruction of the young people who are endeavoring to gain a higher education. Most important among the changes in the college is the selection of its new president, Dr. C. A. Mock. The Doctor has been with the college but a year, and, as some of our readers are not well acquainted with him, the Observer sent its representative to call on him, and we have the pleasure of publishing the following short biography:

Dr. C. A. Mock was born in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, August 7, 1875, and was raised on a farm. At the age of 18 years, he began teaching in the public schools, and after a period of two years entered Central Pennsylvania College, from which he graduated in 1898, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Immediately after graduation he entered upon the active work of the ministry, serving a four years' pastorate in Oil City, Pa., and the remainder of the time in the city of Johnstown, Pa. Urged by officials of the church, as well as by those of the college, he came from Johnstown a year ago to occupy the chair of ancient languages in Dallas College. In 1905 the Doctor received from Grove City College the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, magna cum laude. Just before entering upon the work at Dallas College, Albright College conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts, in cursu.

C. A. MOCK, A. M., PH. D., PRESIDENT OF DALLAS COLLEGE

In talking with the Doctor regarding the policy and management of the school, he said:

"In assuming the management of Dallas College, I do so with the purpose not only of building up a strong institution of learning in the Northwest, but also to develop an institution which may be the pride of the city of Dallas and the surrounding country. Dallas College needs the sympathy, good-will and co-operation of the people of its home town, and I believe Dallas needs the college and is none the less able to sustain a strong institution than other towns of the valley which lack many of the advantages possessed by Dallas. The interests of the people and the college are identical, and in all matters which tend to promote the general welfare, the college will always be ready to co-operate with the people, without presuming to dictate what should be their policy in the affairs of the municipality. As an institution, we stand for the interests not of some but of all; and, while we solicit the co-operation and patronage of the people, we promise heartily to co-operate with the city for the general good, and shall endeavor to give Dallas an institution of which the citizens may justly be proud."

The college has extended its field of usefulness by adding a new department of Shorthand and Typewriting in addition to its Business course. The new department will be under the direction of Prof. G. B. Hardin, who has been manager of the Eclectic Correspondence School for a number of years. In a conversation with the Professor, he said: "The purpose of the connection of this school with the college is to give the students who attend Dallas College an opportunity to pursue a course in Shorthand under personal instruction."

Prof. Hardin has had nine years' experience teaching shorthand by mail, and is recognized as one of the best correspondence school men along the Pacific Coast. He has been writing shorthand since a young boy, and has greatly improved the system which he teaches. He informs us that the demand for stenographers is rapidly increasing, and that competent writers of shorthand are being placed every day in responsible positions.

Another feature of the improved College will be that the department of Music will be directly in connection with the school, and will be under the direction of Prof. William Caldwell. Professor Caldwell comes to Dallas with very high recommendations as a teacher of Music, having studied with the best instructors in this country. Among his instructors are the eminent musicians, Prof. Emil Winkler, of Leipzig, Germany, and Prof. Edward B. Fleck, of St. Petersburg, Russia, who was a pupil of the great Rubenstein. The music room will be equipped with a high-grade piano, which will be at the disposal of the students, and every detail will be considered which will make an improvement in this department.

The athletics of the college will not be sacrificed to its advanced educational facilities, as the school has acquired sole control of the gymnasium building and Dr. H. L. Toney, the physical director, will endeavor to turn out for the college the best basketball team this year in the Willamette Valley.

The faculty of the college remains the same, with Prof. D. M. Metzger as Dean. With its improved curriculum, new departments and highly competent instructors, the prospect for Dallas College is very brilliant, and with the co-operation of the community can be made the best school in Western Oregon.

Logs for Newberg Mill.

In about thirty days it is expected that logs from the great forests above Falls City will be arriving at the mill in Newberg for the Spaulding Logging Company in train loads of twelve to fourteen cars a day. Camps are being established in the timber and with their new facilities for transporting the logs direct from the forests to the mill by rail, they will be able to fill any kind of an order for lumber within a very few days after it is given them. The company has under consideration the matter of putting on a night shift, and if this is done the mill will turn out something like 160,000 feet of lumber in the twenty-four hour run. The bulk of the output of the mill is being sold to the Salt Lake City market.—Newberg Graphic.

Christianity Outgrows Creeds.

"Christianity Outgrows Creeds" was the subject of a sermon delivered at the United Evangelical church Sunday night by Dr. C. A. Mock, the new president of Dallas college. Dr. Mock likened Christianity to a growing boy and creeds to a growing boy's clothing, which is being continually outgrown. The speaker declared that it is a healthy sign when Christianity outgrows a creed. We all have a creed, he said, but it is not necessarily what the thing is. The minister denied that Christ is losing his hold on the world, but alleged that the world was never before so eager to learn of him, that his teachings are as applicable to twentieth-century problems as to any other.—Portland Journal.

Released From Custody.

G. S. Hoaglin, who was recently bound over to the Circuit Court on a charge of assaulting a man named Brown near Independence, furnished bail Monday and was released from custody. "Doc" claims that the charge against him is the result of spitework and that he will have no difficulty in proving his innocence when his case comes up in the Circuit Court. He returned to his home near Independence, Tuesday.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL AT MONMOUTH

BEGINS its 25th year September 25, 1906. Three full courses of study. Higher course recognized in Washington and other states. The best and shortest way to a state and life paper. Additional work in both general and special Methods; also, school management for graded and ungraded schools will be given this coming year. Longer terms, higher wages and better opportunities are open to Normal graduates. School directors appreciate the superior ability of Monmouth graduates, and the demand far exceeds the supply. Catalogue containing full information will be sent on application. Correspondence invited. Address, J. B. V. BUTLER, Registrar.

NOTES BY THE WAY

Mrs. Kozer Tells of a Pleasant Day Spent Amid Historic Scenes.

Leading down a beautiful lane about a quarter of a mile from the Mansion, we found the Tomb of Washington. It is a very plain structure of brick, with an arched gateway in front, above which, on a marble slab, is inscribed, "Within this enclosure rest the remains of Gen. George Washington." In the ante-chamber are seen two marble sarcophagi, each hewn from a single block of marble. Here the remains of Washington and Martha, his wife, were entrusted to their final keeping and the keys cast into the Potomac river. Within the vault rest forty members of the Washington and Custis families. Near by are monuments to the memory of four of them.

Interest attaches to several trees which have been planted as tributes to Washington. An elm, planted by Don Pedro, Emperor of Brazil; a British oak, planted by request of H. R. H. Prince of Wales to replace the memorial tree planted by him during his visit to Mt. Vernon in 1860; a German linden, planted February 27, 1902, by Prince Henry of Russia; Concord Elm, by the children of the American Revolution.

The Flower Garden is quaint with its boxwood hedges, which are reputed to have been set out more than a century and a half ago. Some of the beds near the greenhouse are very intricate and curious in design. At the foot of the garden is the famous Mary Washington rose named by Washington for his mother. Slips of this rose, cuttings from the willow which came from Napoleon's grave at St. Helena, and young palms from the Sago, are sold as souvenirs.

The Sago-palm is the only greenhouse plant now living which was at Mt. Vernon in Washington's day. An elm in one of the mounds near the entrance was a slip from the old Washington elm in Cambridge. It was sent by Miss Alice Longfellow and planted by Mrs. Cleveland. Near by is the magnolia, brought by Washington from the James River in 1799, the last year of his life. A Kentucky coffee tree and a hydrangea planted by Lafayette in 1824 still flourish.

After a day we thought very profitably spent, we made the return trip to the Capitol by the steamboat route and had a delightful sail up the Potomac. An excursion party of 600 Sunday School children were taken on board along the route, and they certainly did make it lively for those in whose charge they were. We had perfect weather all the time, but when within a few miles of the city the black clouds were seen and all knew a storm was brewing. By the time we were landed, the storm broke over the city—wind, peals of thunder, and flashes of lightning enough to terrify the bravest. The streets were filled with fallen trees, etc. We managed to reach our boarding place, thoroughly drenched, but thankful that we were alive. Our plans to leave for Boston were postponed another twenty-four hours, and if I have not wearied your patience will jot a few notes from the "Hub."

MRS. H. E. KOZER.

Man is a Queer Duck.

Men are queer. Wouldn't there be a roar when they went home to their meals if they had to climb up on a high stool in front of a table on which there was no cloth and eat their meals in that fashion? Yet a majority of men, when they go to a restaurant to eat, will pick out the high stool and the feed board with no cloth on it in preference to a comfortable chair and a cloth-covered table. A man will borrow a chew of tobacco and most of them will set their teeth into the plug right over where some other man has gnawed out a chew. Offer him a piece of pie at home from which his wife or one of the children had taken a bite and he would holler his head off. At home he will not drink out of a glass or cup from which some one of the family has been drinking. Call him into the back stall of a livery barn, and he will stick the neck of the bottle half way down his throat in order to get a swig after a half dozen other fellows have had the neck of the bottle in their mouths. A man is a queer duck.—Atebison (Kan.) Globe.

POLK COUNTY SAWMILLS

Items of Interest to Polk County People Clipped from August Number of The Timberman.

Right-of-way is being secured for the extension of the Salem & Falls City Railroad from Dallas to Salem.

Fred Oberer and E. A. Meyer have purchased the Charter Oak Mill Company's plant at Independence and are removing it to near Falls City, where they have about 7,000,000 feet of timber. The plant has a capacity of 15,000 feet daily.

The Willamette Valley Lumber Co., Dallas, has purchased the interest of George W. Cone in the business. Mr. Cone built the mill about a year ago, later disposing of an interest to F. W. Leadbetter, L. Gerlinger, H. L. Pitcock and George Gerlinger. The Chas. K. Spaulding Logging Co., of Newberg, has since acquired an interest in the Dallas & Falls City Railroad, controlled by the Gerlingers, and the road will be extended further into the timber holdings of the company.

Robert Sutor died of heart disease at his home in Vancouver, Wash., July 25, aged 62 years. Deceased came to the United States from Canada in 1875, building and operating a sawmill in New Hampshire. He came to Oregon in 1887, and in 1889 built a sawmill at Falls City in Polk County, which was afterwards destroyed by fire. Mr. Sutor successfully operated several mills in this state, including a mill at Westport, Oregon, which was sold to the Blunn-Waldo Lumber Company. In 1903 he built the mill at Linnton, Oregon, which he sold to the Clark & Wilson Lumber Company in 1905. Deceased leaves his widow, Susie Sutor, one daughter, Mary Sutor, of Barre, Vt., and five sons, Thomas, of North Dakota; R. A. and A. O., of Oregon; Alexander, of California, and E. D., of Vancouver, Wash.

Passed Century Mark.

G. S. Hoaglin, formerly of Dallas but now a resident of Independence, received a telegram Friday from Burlington, Iowa, announcing the death of his father, John Hoaglin. The elder Mr. Hoaglin was a pioneer merchant of St. Louis, and was 102 years and 8 months old at the time of his death. He came to Oregon in 1847, and after spending about two years here, returned to the Middle States and engaged in selling merchandise in the state of Iowa. He continued in the business over 40 years. He was the father of nine children, G. S. Hoaglin, of Polk county, being the youngest.

Portland's bank clearings for the first seven months of 1906 are $145,149,707, an increase of $21,768,857 over the total for the same months in 1905.
